

REDMOND SEES END OF HOUSE OF LORDS

Irish Party Will Press for the Amended Land Bill.

National Movement Will Not Suffer From Birrell Bill Fiasco.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—John Redmond, the Irish parliamentary leader, is quoted in an interview printed here today as certain that Ireland will get home rule in the near future.

After pointing out the defects in the Birrell bill, Mr. Redmond is quoted as saying:

"I think the government will introduce a measure following the spirit of the resolution which was passed by a great majority a little while ago—that the house of lords should be abolished. The government will, I believe, translate the resolution into a bill. This will be rejected by the house of lords. This will be followed by a general election by the beginning of 1909, at the latest. If the Liberals win that election by a substantial majority, the veto power of the house of lords will, I believe, be limited or abrogated altogether, and in that way the real obstacle to the passage of the full measure will disappear.

Will Press for Land Bill.

"Meanwhile we are going to press for and expect a bill amending the land purchase act of 1903, giving compulsory purchase powers and breaking up the great grazing tracts. We introduced a bill to this effect and carried it by 150 majority last May. We are awaiting the action of Lord Durlay's commission, who are still considering the question before proceeding further with the bill."

"Do you think that the national movement in Ireland, America will suffer by reason of this setback?"

"It most certainly will not—to any material extent, at all events. One must be prepared for this sort of thing in politics. I feel sure that the national movement will rapidly rally from this mere temporary disappointment, and that the sober thought of your people will soon realize that the rejection of the bill was a blessing in disguise.

Sinn Fein Not So Bad.

"There's nothing new in the Sinn Fein business. There always has been a revolutionary movement here, and so far as it is honest, I have no quarrel with it. A movement of that kind is made up of many sorts of people, but there are always cranks, soreheads, and frauds connected with it. The doctrine of Sinn Fein—the policy of relying upon ourselves—has always been the sentiment of the Parnell movement. It was never stronger than it is within our own ranks today. We have lost no ground.

"Things have come so easy to us in recent years that we are inclined to grow dependent under a mere temporary disappointment. Think of the hard fights we had and the many, many reverses we sustained during the days of the Land League and the National League, but we triumphed in the end.

Labor Favors Home Rule.

"We shall triumph in the movement for our government in the near future. The obstacles which barred our progress to the obtaining of national self-government are rapidly disappearing. The vast majority of the Liberals and the Labor party are strongly in favor of Ireland's claims of home rule. The national sentiment has entirely disappeared.

"The condition we have to face now is either friendliness or apathy, but violent opposition has entirely disappeared. This is a tremendous step on the road to home rule, and an achievement to which the Irish party can point with pride."

GERMAN SOCIALISTS ON HAYWOOD CASE

STUTTGART, Germany, Aug. 24.—Congratulations for William D. Haywood because of his acquittal in his recent trial for alleged complicity in the murder of former Governor Steinhilber of Idaho, and praise for laboring men who supported him, are contained in the resolution adopted today by the international socialist conference here.

President Roosevelt is likened by the resolution to "capitalists" who attempted to convict an innocent man. Following is the text of the resolution:

"Resolved, That the congress congratulate the world's socialists for their magnificent fight for organized labor.

"We denounce the efforts of the mine owners to condemn an innocent man because of his services to the working classes.

"In the unlawful method of his arrest, prosecution, and willful waging by State officials and the President of the United States we see evidence of the growing class of capitalists and their utter lack of mercy and honor in all matters concerning the maintenance of their profits and power."

Another resolution declares that war is an outgrowth of capitalism, and the necessary consequence of competition. Socialist members of all parliaments are urged to oppose all applications for naval and military expenditures.

The next session of the congress will be held at Copenhagen.

GIRL, ASLEEP DAYS, DREAMS OF COFFIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Miss Flossie Bennett, of Kankakee, Ill., sixteen years old daughter of Samuel Bennett, superintendent of the Hospital for the Insane, went to sleep Monday and since that time has been conscious only a moment when she appeared to be suffering from an illusion that she was lying in a coffin.

"Oh! mamma," she sobbed, "why did you let me put me in this white coffin? Don't let me do it again. Don't let me go to sleep."

She was lifted from the bed and every effort to keep her awake was made, but she fell asleep again.

Hughes, the Man With the Boom, And Independent of the "Bosses," Will Soon Tour County Fairs

Trip Will Give Him Estimate of Strength With Voters.

"That animated feather duster," Gov. Charles E. Hughes, of New York, is beginning to loom up in the Presidential race. Recent "straw votes" and "post-card canvasses" have shown that he has a strong following.

Mr. Hughes' independence of "boss" influence has endeared him to a great many men who are tired of seeing the public affairs of this country syndicated.

During the ensuing month Mr. Hughes will be making a tour of New York, which will be no less significant in its way than Mr. Taft's tour of the world. At the county fairs Mr. Hughes ought to be able to make a fair estimate of his standing with the voters of the State.

Yet, oddly enough, no one has even intimated the belief that Mr. Hughes was to make this journey in the interest of his potential "boom."

WIDOW WILL WED AFTER THAW TRIAL

PARIS, Aug. 24.—According to the desire of relatives to await the verdict in the second trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of her husband, Stanford White, Mrs. Stanford White, widow of the architect, has consented to postpone her contemplated marriage to Charles F. McKim, her former husband's partner.

DAY ON BAYSHORE FOR 500 CHILDREN

Others Go to Luna Park and Are Given Trolley Rides.

On Tuesday the Associated Charities is to take 500 needy children and mothers to Chesapeake Beach for a day's outing, provided by Paul Y. Waters, general manager of the Chesapeake Beach Railroad Company.

On Saturday, September 7, 200 children are to be taken to Luna Park as guests of the Navy Yard employees. Additional outings for small groups are being arranged, and street car tickets for evening trolley rides are being given to sickly needy persons by both the agents of the Associated Charities and the nurses of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society.

Toward the support of all this work, in addition to Camp Good Will and Pleasant Camp, the following contributions have been received at 811 G street and acknowledged by Andrew Parker, treasurer of the committee:

RUSSIAN TRAINS COLLIDE AND KILL FOUR PERSONS

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 24.—Four persons were killed and seven probably fatally injured tonight by the collision of two passenger trains at Pavlovsk, a fashionable suburb.

Skirts to Cover Knee, Newport's Daring Fad

Lengths of Silk Stockings Protrude and the Effect Is Startling—Autograph Hosiery With Name Unseen a Novelty.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Returning to town from Newport, one just must tell his friends about an innovation of this season which gives to a chance visitor who has seen nothing but the Broadway parade for months a sensation not unlike that produced by an unexpected ice-water shower bath.

The innovation is the short skirt—not the shoe-top length, far from it. The skirt hangs just below the knee, and long lengths of silk stockings thence protrude.

It is daring, audacious.

The result, however, has not met with much disapproval. They are well built in Newport. One's first look in at the Casino conveys the impression that Ned Wayburn stage-managed the whole affair.

When the fashion reaches from Newport to Broadway, which is not unlikely, the Flatiron corner's reputation, which has been neglected of late, may be rejuvenated.

Appropos, a new wrinkle in the hosiery line at the summer social capital is the autograph stocking. Every girl asks every other girl she knows to embroider her name in silk of varying hues on one of her stockings. The signature is written with marking ink just as it would be at the end of a letter, and then worked over with bright threads.

Sometimes a particular chum also works in an appropriate sentiment. What these sentiments are, if appropriate, only the initiated can know. Even the short skirts do not reveal them.

QUEEN TIH FOUND IN GOLD COFFIN

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 24.—The most important discovery in the archaeology of Egypt this season—which has been particularly rich in finds—is the tomb of Queen Tili, the second greatest royal lady of the ancient kingdom.

Her coffin, which is in excellent preservation, is thickly plated with gold.

Queen Tili's tomb was deeply hidden in solid rock, and was found at the end of a long passage. The coffin is richly decorated with a feather pattern in thin beaten plates of gold, with the royal collar inlaid with carnelian and other stones. Owing to the coffin having opened by the swelling of the wood, the mummy was much decayed.

A number of valuable objects strewn about the tomb indicated the royal rank of the mummy. There was a large wooden slab, richly plated with gold, which might have been a shrine door or the roof of a canopy over the coffin. A number of beautiful alabaster vases—the tops decorated with carved female heads—were ranged around the coffin.

These indicated that the mummy was that of a queen, but it was unknown which queen until the name of "The Great Royal Mother Tili" was discovered on the coffin. Several beautiful pieces of jewelry were found in the coffin. Tili, Queen of Amenophis III, was the daughter of a Mesopotamian king. She was a powerful personage, and one of the most remarkable characters in Egyptian history.

THIRTEEN BITTEN BY FOX TERRIER

Wild Panic Among 500 Women and Children Caused by Dog.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Five hundred women and children, frightened into a frenzy, fled before a rambunctious terrier on the beach at Twenty-second street, Coney Island, today. Thirteen persons, including seven children, were bitten by the dog before he was shot by the police. The dog had all the appearances of an animal with hydrophobia.

The fox terrier, which belonged to Ben Davis, was a peevish bit of a dog and always had a bad temper. Mrs. Davis was walking along the beach at the foot of her street, when the dog suddenly sprang up, snapping at an imaginary enemy. As Mrs. Davis spoke to him, he sprang at her, burying his teeth in the calf of her leg. Mrs. Davis cried out in pain, and William Powell came to her aid.

He seized the dog by the legs and dragged him away, throwing him a dozen feet toward the water. The animal got his legs and sprang at Powell, tearing the man's trousers half off. Powell fled, and the terrier next dashed toward a flock of children that were playing in the sand.

These children were living at the Seaside Home, under the care of the Brooklyn Aid Society. After biting three of them, the dog left for another group further up the beach.

A dozen men and grown boys, armed with sticks and stones, now attacked the dog. They headed him off and kept him away from other groups of the charity children playing about.

WOMAN WALKED MILES TO SECURE SON'S BONES

PARIS, Aug. 24.—A grim story of a mother's love has reached Paris from a village called La Norville, near Arpajon. The gendarmes saw a young woman, dressed in deep black, enter the cemetery, carrying something which was done up in a white apron. She went to a tomb and took out of it a skull and a number of human bones, which she spread out before her.

The gendarmes took her up and brought her before a justice of the peace. She said she was a poor widow and had traveled from Bayeux, in Normandy.

"Five years ago," she said, "I lost my only child, my little boy. He was buried at Bayeux, but I was able to bury the ground for only five years, and learning a day or two ago that the body was going to be dug up and cast into the common grave, I went to the cemetery to claim my child's body in order to give it a decent burial.

"On arrival at Bayeux I found the grave-diggers were already there, and they refused to allow me to take possession of my child's bones. I had no money to pay for the remains to be transplanted, and so I went to the cemetery at night, opened the coffin and took my little son's bones. I was about to put the remains to rest in my husband's grave when the gendarmes took me."

She had traveled all the way between the two places on foot, having no money to buy a railway ticket.

NO LONGER WITH HIM.

Passenger (on Atlantic liner)—Hello, old man? Had breakfast? Personally Conducted Tourist (cleaning out)—For about fifteen minutes!—Pek.
